ACADEMIC REGALIA

The pageantry of commencement has its roots in medieval times, dating to the early traditions of Europe's first universities. The origins of academic attire are obscured in history. Still, the scholar's distinctive dress was likely the United States set a uniform academic costume code for its universities that European degree holders bring to the American commencement, such visual pleasures as sable berets, cardinal robes, and other distinctive garb.

The cap, the hood, and the robe are the visual components of the academic costume. As we see it now, the mortarboard comes from joining the elements of a square bonnet and a skull cap. As early as 1600, scholars at Oxford began using lightweight boards to hold out the corners of the bonnet. The tassel color may designate the institution of the field of learning in which the degree is conferred, or it may be black.
